

Column Case Texas DIR Pricing 2023

Who Needs A Paid License

Column Case uses a floating license model in which when the user logs off the license becomes available to the group. With that said, a paid license is required for users who are entering, creating, and modifying cases. In summary, anyone that is making changes to the database needs a paid license.

Actions such as accessing, viewing, and searching are performed with a free read license. A paid license is required most often by caseworkers, detectives, investigators, legal resources, and supervisors who use the system as an integral part of their day-to-day work function.

Column Case Application

For on-premise installations organizations are required to purchase the application as well as the licenses and then pay annual support. With a software as a service subscription model, there is not a separate charge for the use of the application.
